

A FRESH LOOK AT THE INTERNATIONAL CENTER

The International Center is pleased to announce the release of its new video highlighting all that The Center has to offer our city, state and region. The Center, through the support of a partial in-kind donation from B. Media House, produced a compelling 4-minute video that illustrates how we are fulfilling our mission of informing, convening and connecting public, private and civic global objectives in the Hoosier state.

For more information about The International Center's programs and services, contact Ashley B. Eason, vice president of programs and services.

The video features insight from the people who know The International Center best, including IC Board Chair and Indianapolis Airport Authority's Sr. Director of Commercial Enterprise Marsha Stone; Al White of Eli Lilly and Company; the Indy Chamber's Maureen Krauss and more.

"Due to the breadth of our programs and services, it's difficult for some people to grasp exactly what The International Center does and, more specifically, what we can do for them," said Martin Baier, president and CEO. "Our hope is that this video will help us show what we can do for Indiana and encourage Hoosiers to get in touch with us for all of their international needs."
